District of Columbia Department of Health

Community Health Administration

REQUEST FOR APPLICATIONS #CHA-122112

Maternal and Child Health Services, Title V Block Grant FY 2013-2014

SECTION I GENERAL INFORMATION

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS), Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA), Maternal and Child Health Bureau, Division of State and Community Health allocates funding to the District of Columbia (DC) for the Maternal and Child Health Services Title V Block Grant Program. The purpose of the Program is to assist states in the design and implementation of comprehensive community-based systems of care to address the needs of women (before, during, and after pregnancy and childbirth), infants, children, and adolescents (including children and adolescents with special health care needs). Within the D.C. Department of Health (DOH), the Community Health Administration (CHA) administers the Maternal and Child Health Services Title V Block Grant Program (Grant No. B04MC25332).

The mission of CHA is to improve health outcomes for all residents of the DC with an emphasis on women, infants, children (including children/youth with special health care needs (CYSHCN)) and other vulnerable groups such as those with a disproportionate burden of chronic disease and disability. To this end, CHA provides programs and services that promote coordination among the systems of care in the city and enhances access to effective primary, secondary and tertiary prevention services. CHA also collaborates with public and private organizations to provide support services to improve access to quality care and to address the social determinants of health for these groups. CHA embraces the values of accountability, collaboration, and initiative in the pursuit of its mission and fosters public participation in the design and implementation of community health programs.

Maternal and Child Health Services Block Grant funds are distributed in accordance with statutory requirements detailed in Title V of the Social Security Act, 1935; revised by P.L. 07-95, the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act, 1981; as amended by P.L. 101-239, the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act, 1989. The Maternal and Child Health pyramid of health services is the conceptual framework utilized in the annual Title V application and reporting process. The levels are as follows: Level I: Direct Health Care Services – basic health services and health services for CYSHCN; Level II: Enabling Services – transportation, translations, outreach, respite care, health education, family support services, purchase of health insurance, case management, coordination with Medicaid, WIC, and Education; Level III: Population-based Services- newborn screening, lead screening, immunization, sudden infant death syndrome counseling, oral health, injury prevention, nutrition, and outreach/public education; and Level IV: Infrastructure-Building Services – needs assessment, evaluation, planning, policy development, coordination, quality assurance, standards development, monitoring, training, applied research, systems of care, and information systems.

In addition, the Title V application/annual report to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, HRSA must reflect the DC's priority needs based upon DC's five year needs assessment, to measure progress toward achievement of national and the DC Maternal and Child Health performance measures based upon National and District Healthy People 2010 objectives; and to measure progress toward improving national and DC Maternal and Child Health outcome measures.

Organizations seeking funds under this RFA should have the capacity to provide direct, enabling and/or infrastructure building services to improve outcomes for children residing in DC with asthma, sickle cell disease, or mood, emotional or behavioral disorders. Each applicant should address only one priority health condition per grant application. Preference will be given to those applicants whose proposals have the broadest reach into the community.

Programs funded under this initiative shall be based upon best practices that are science/evidence-based and are effective in improving outcomes for CYSHCN and their families. The successful applicant shall also be required to establish and demonstrate collaborative linkages via service-level agreements with referral agencies in order to facilitate, track and monitor referrals to and from their funded program.

The successful applicant will be required to participate in on-going workgroups and program meetings specifically developed to coordinate services for CYSHCN in DC and to ensure that best practices are shared and appropriate protocols are being followed.

PROGRAM AREA DESCRIPTIONS

Program Area A:
Direct Services for Children with Special Healthcare Needs, Focusing on Children/Youth with High-Priority Conditions

A. PROGRAM OVERVIEW

Providing Children and Youth with Special Health Care Needs (CYSHCN) who reside in DC and their families with the services they need to increase the quality of their lives is one of the major priorities in the Maternal and Child Health Services Title V Block Grant Program and National and District of Columbia Healthy People 2010 goals and objectives.

HRSA has developed six core outcomes for children with special health care needs as part of the national action plan to achieve community-based service systems for CYSHCN and their families. These core outcomes are:

- 1) Families of CSHCN partner in decision making at all levels and are satisfied with the services they receive;
- 2) CYSHCN receives coordinated ongoing comprehensive care within a medical home;
- 3) Families of CYSHCN have adequate private and/or public insurance to pay for the services they need;
- 4) Children are screened early and continuously for special health care needs;
- 5) Community-based services for CYSHCN are organized so families can use them easily; and
- 6) Youth with special needs receive the services necessary to make transitions to all aspects of adult life, including work, independence, and adult health care.

According to the 2009 -2010 National Survey of Children with Special Needs, the percentage of children and youth with special health care needs, ages 0-17, in the District of Columbia is 16.6%, which is above the national average of 15.1%. There has been an increase since the 2005 study, when the DC percentage was 14.7% and the national average was 13.9%.

In addition, the RAND Corporation's 2009 Report, Health and Health Care Among District of Columbia Youth identified particular health conditions as priorities due to their prevalence and/or the patterns of health care associated with them. These priority health conditions for youth in the District are asthma, sickle cell disease and mental health conditions such as mood, behavioral and developmental disorders. Further description of these priority health conditions follow.

ASTHMA

- For 2010 the current asthma prevalence in the United States was 8.4% affecting 7.1 million children between the ages of 0–17 years, according to the Center for Disease Control and Prevention.
- In the District of Columbia, lifetime and current asthma prevalence for children were higher than the national prevalence rates. For 2010, the lifetime and current child asthma prevalence rates in the District of Columbia were 22.4 and 18.0 percent, respectively.
- Children lifetime and current asthma prevalence rates differ between groups, with higher rates among male children, African-American Non-Hispanics, and children from families with an annual income below the poverty level.
- Male children are significantly more like to have a greater lifetime and current asthma prevalence (22.1/22.2%) than females (17.9/13.8%).
- African-American children in DC have a higher prevalence of lifetime and current asthma (28.8/24.2%) compared to children within other racial groups.
- Also, lifetime and current asthma prevalence for African-American Non-Hispanic children in the District of Columbia is higher than national lifetime and current asthma prevalence rates in the rest of the U.S.

SICKLE CELL DISEASE

- As noted in the Rand Report, district children with sickle cell disease had high hospitalization rates. (2007)
- More than half of all children with this condition had at least one inpatient stay and 19% had three or more inpatient stays.
- More than three-fourths of children with sickle cell disease receiving health care from the specialty organization, Health Services for Children with Special Needs (HSCSN), had at least one emergency department (ED) visit during the year,
- Nearly 30 percent of all HSCSN enrollees with sickle cell disease were frequent ED users.

MENTAL HEALTH CONDITIONS (MOOD, EMOTIONAL, and BEHVAIORAL DISORDERS)

• Among children in HSCSN, nearly two-thirds of all qualifying diagnoses were mental health or developmental disorders. (2007)

- Among children in Medicaid/Alliance managed care and Fee for Service Medicaid in DC, 4 14 percent of enrollees, respectively, who used health services, have a mental health disorder or developmental delay.
- Mental health conditions contributed to 13–14 percent of inpatient stays among DC children/youth ages 5–17.
- Mental illness was a factor in 3 –5 percent of ED visits among older youth and young adults in DC.
- Episodic mood disorders, in particular, were associated with a substantial fraction (i.e., between 8 and 10 percent) of inpatient hospitalizations among DC youth ages 5–17 years.
- Among managed care enrollees in DC, the inpatient hospital readmission rate was higher in instances where the initial inpatient admission was related to a mental health issue.

B. PERSONS TO BE REACHED

The target populations prioritized for this program area are children/youth with current asthma, sickle cell disease or mood, emotional, developmental or behavioral disorders. Children/youth from communities who have higher rates of hospitalizations, ED visits or other indicators of risk due to the priority health condition should be targeted for intervention in order to improve their health status.

C. INTERVENTIONS AND PROGRAM MODELS

The following interventions will be funded for children/youth with the priority health conditions of either asthma, sickle cell disease, or mood, emotional, developmental or behavioral disorders: 1) quality improvement projects to ensure patient cohorts receive the highest standards of care (e.g. through electronic medical record prompts to assess asthma control and prescribe appropriate medication); 2) quality improvement projects to ensure patient cohorts receive and follow through with appropriate referrals to specialty or support services (e.g., routinize or automate referrals to mental health providers from the medical home); 3) provide case management for highest-risk children/youth as defined by admission/ED visit numbers or other quantifiable criteria; 4) provide transition service; and 5) offer care coordination/family navigation. Applicants may elect to implement any or all of these interventions.

D. RECIPIENT RESPONSIBILITIES

The recipient shall:

- Select target population(s) of DC CYSHCN to receive services based upon evidence of need and upon the recipient's experience in providing services to such a population. The target populations selected must be wholly or a high-risk subpopulation of children/youth with either with asthma, sickle cell disease, or mood, emotional, developmental or behavioral disorders.
- 2. Develop a project work plan that is subject to review by the DOH staff.

- 3. Provide services for target population(s) of CYSHCN designed to improve their health outcomes related to morbidity or quality of life. Interventions may also aim to improve access to quality care.
- 4. All interventions chosen should be:
  - Science/evidence-based and
  - Acceptable to and understood by the target population(s) (i.e., are culturally appropriate).
- 5. Set performance targets for service delivery and for its anticipated impact on reducing morbidity, improving the quality of life and/or improving access to quality care.
- 6. Develop program objectives, among others, that are based upon the following specific performance indicators for each type of intervention:
  - Proportion of the intended number of the target population(s) that are actually reached with the specified intervention(s).
  - The number of clients who receive all of the services intended for them.
  - The number of clients and caregivers who are satisfied with the services that they received under the intervention (i.e., a client satisfaction survey should generally be used to gather this information).
  - For educational interventions, pre/post testing of knowledge of subject matter must be administered to evaluate the effectiveness of the intervention. Copies of all pre/posttests must be submitted to DOH for review
- 7. Collaborate with clinical and community partners relevant to the intervention(s) and provide documentation of community collaboration.
- 8. Collaborate with CHA and other DOH and DC agencies in such activities as community outreach and public and media campaigns.
- 9. Develop and maintain a program budget in accordance with the guidelines included in this RFA (see ATTACGMENT G). All funds allocated under this RFA must be used for the express purpose of the delivery of approved services in accordance with the requirements of the DC Government.

Program Area B: Enabling Services for Children/Youth with Special Healthcare Needs

A. PROGRAM OVERVIEW

Enabling services are non-medical services that facilitate timely and appropriate access to care. They are also services that can improve the quality of care for patients. All children and youth with special health care needs deserve easy access to high-quality care to ensure their proper development and their quality of life. Enabling services support and improve outcomes for all users of the health care system, and they have an especially positive impact on children and youth with special health care needs since this population frequently interfaces with health care and support service systems.

According to the Rand Corporation's Report Health and Health Care among District Youth (2009), access to primary care among the pediatric population remains a challenge. For instance:

- Ambulatory care—sensitive inpatient hospitalization (ACS-IP) rates, which are related to the availability and efficacy of primary care, increased among the youth population in the District between 2004 and 2007. The most notable increase was among children ages 0–4.
- Among publicly insured children, rates of office-based health care use in the District appear to be well below national rates.
- Among nondisabled children in managed care, about 27 percent use the emergency department (ED) during a year as compared to a 42 percent use rate among disabled children.
- District parents, teens, and providers have noted particular difficulty accessing dental and mental health care as well as developmental assessments.

Some of the barriers to health care for the pediatric population that were cited by the Rand report include:

- Limited availability of appointments for primary care
- Limited availability of off-hours (evening, weekend, early morning) ambulatory care
- Limited number and accessibility of pediatric specialists
- Perceived lack of understanding among providers of cultural and neighborhood issues
- Limited availability of providers who speak languages other than English or who provide translation services
- Concern about appropriateness and accessibility of adolescent health services
- Lack of a standard, uniform, and facile process for the authorization of specialty care referrals

B. PERSONS TO BE REACHED

The target populations for this program area are children and/or youth with special health care needs. Applicants can focus on a particular population or subpopulation(s), using data to justify their selection, including how the particular intervention will likely have the desired impact. Preference will be given to those applicants who propose services that are innovative and have the potential for broad reach.

C. INTERVENTIONS AND PROGRAM MODELS

Interventions that address the barriers to care cited above or others as documented by the applicant and supported by evidence, will be considered for funding. Examples of such interventions follow: 1) projects to improve the quality of healthcare delivery system design (e.g., open access clinic hours); 2) projects to ensure that patients receive and follow through with appropriate referrals to specialty or support services; 3) case management for highest-risk children/youth as defined by hospital admissions; ED visits, or other quantifiable data; 4) translation services; 5) patient/family navigation; 6) care coordination; and 7) family support services. Applicants may elect to implement any of these interventions or others that are appropriate.

D. RECIPIENT RESPONSIBILITIES

The recipient shall:

- 1. Select a target population to receive enabling services based on evidence of need. The population selected must be DC children and/or youth with special health care needs or specific subpopulation(s) of those groups
- 2. Develop a project work plan that is subject to review by the DOH. Any deviation from your work plan has to be approved.
- 3. Provide enabling services for target population(s) to improve their access to quality care that are:
  - Evidence-based, and
  - Acceptable to and understood by the target population (i.e. are culturally appropriate).
- 4. Set performance targets for service delivery and its anticipated impact on improving access to quality care.
- 5. Conduct evaluation activities on the delivered intervention utilizing tools and reporting systems approved and authorized by CHA.
- 6. Develop program objectives based on the following specific performance indicators for each intervention type:
  - Proportion of the intended number of the target population(s) to be reached with the specified intervention(s).
  - The number of clients who actually receive services under the intervention.
  - The number of clients/caregivers satisfied with services they received. (Client satisfaction surveys should be used to gather this information).
  - For educational interventions, pre/post testing of knowledge of subject matter must be administered to evaluate the effectiveness of the intervention. Copies of all pre/posttests must be submitted to DOH for review
- 7. Collaborate with clinical and community partners to inform and coordinate service delivery.

- 8. Collaborate with CHA and other DC Department of Health agencies in related activities such as community outreach or public information and media campaigns that target prioritized populations.
- 9. Develop and maintain a program budget in accordance with the guidelines included in this RFA (ATTACHMENT G)

Program Area C:

A. PROGRAM OVERVIEW

In order that children and youth with special healthcare needs can receive comprehensive, coordinated and high quality healthcare, it is essential that such services be supported by an infrastructure that continually supports and enhances them. The term "infrastructure" in this context refers to a wide variety of activities, programs and organizations that contribute to programmatic support. Examples include systems of program and institutional assessment; evaluation and quality assurance activities for healthcare and related services; strategic planning; policy development and analysis; standards development; design and operation of healthcare delivery systems; applied research and development activities and programs; training of personnel involved in the delivery of services; and design and operation of information systems.

B. PERSONS TO BE REACHED

The target populations for this program area are children and youth residing in DC who have special healthcare needs and the institutions and individuals who provide them with the services that they require. However, the emphasis here is not on the services but on the way in which they can be better delivered, coordinated, planned and/or evaluated. Among the proposals that are likely to be submitted under this Program Area, the ones that are most likely to be supported are those which have the broadest impact and which are the most innovative.

C. INTERVENTION AND PROGRAM MODEL

Interventions that improve the infrastructure for healthcare delivery for children and youth with special health care needs and that are evidence-based will be considered for funding. Projects such as the following provide examples of such projects: 1) quality assurance projects that permit the efficiency and effectiveness of healthcare delivery systems to be continuously evaluated and improved; 2) conducting strategic planning for a group of providers of services to children/youth with special healthcare needs in an area of DC where such providers lack resources for planning for the future of their organizations; 3) analyzing existing DC Government policies and the laws derived from them that affect the health and life quality of children and youth with special healthcare needs and developing more constructive policies; 4) developing curriculums for individuals who provide health-related services to children and youth with special health care needs in order to improve their requisite skills and knowledge; and 5) developing supportive information systems.

A program that involves development of a Parent Consultation model utilizing evidence based or promising practices related to family/professional partnerships will be considered for funding: Such programs might include training families on how to partner with service professionals and training these professionals on how to work with families; and training families to advocate for their needs in the public sector..

If the program is to provide navigation services or information about navigation services, it should utilize evidence-based practices related to family-centered care such as one-to-one family-to-family support; should help families in navigating service systems; and should link with and/or provide interventions and training to improve the family-centeredness & cultural competence of providers and care systems.

D. RECIPIENT RESPONSIBILITIES

The Recipient shall:

- 1. Select target population(s) to be the beneficiary of improved infrastructure for healthcare services. These populations must be children and/or youth residing in DC with special healthcare needs or subpopulations of these groups.
- 2. Provide improved infrastructure services for the target population(s) that are:
  - Evidence-based, and
  - Acceptable to and understood by the target population(s) (i.e., are culturally appropriate).
- 3. Set targets for improved infrastructure and its anticipated impact on improving healthcare quality.
- 4. Provide a model for collaboration between families of children and youth with special health care needs and health professionals within the DC through such innovations as:
  - Conducting outreach and developing effective collaborative partnerships with families, health care providers, managed care organization, health care purchasers, appropriate DC agencies, community based organizations, and/or other appropriate groups in order to achieve desired project outcomes;
  - Developing effective tools and strategies for ongoing partnerships, communication, information sharing/dissemination and mentoring opportunities for all involved families, with special efforts to include families with culturally, linguistically, socioeconomically and geographically diverse backgrounds;
  - Providing the rationale and evidence supporting the proposed intervention/strategies;
  - Describing activities which are capable of addressing the problem issues and attaining the project objectives based upon evidence; and
  - Integrating policies and practices of family-centered care, meaningful family/professional partnerships and cultural and linguistic competence throughout the project's activities.

- 5. Utilize evidence based practices related to cultural and linguistic competence including
  - The development of cultural competence policies designed to support culturally and linguistically competent practices;
  - Providing appropriate language access with current, accurate and culturally/linguistically appropriate information to families, while accounting for their health literacy levels; and
  - Engaging cultural brokers where appropriate.
- 6. Conduct monitoring and evaluation of the services provided utilizing tools and reporting systems required by DOH (ATTACHMENT I). In this regard, the recipient must develop program objectives based on the following specific performance indicators for each intervention type:
  - Proportion of members of the target populations expected to be reached with the specified service(s) that were actually reached,
  - Proportion of persons that completed the intended number of sessions for each of the interventions implemented, and
  - The number of successful referrals made to other treatment or support services.
- 7. Collaborate with other HRSA-funded Block Grant activities or entities to ensure sharing of best practices and integration of services and systems
- 8. Collaborate with CHA and other DOH and DC agencies in related activities such as community outreach, operating resource centers, and conducting public information and media campaigns that target children/youth with special health care needs residing in DC and their families.
- 9. Develop and maintain a program budget in accordance with the guidelines included in this RFA (See ATTACHMENT G)

The process evaluation will examine the development and implementation of the proposed applicant activities; assessing whether strategies are being implemented as planned and whether expected outputs are actually produced. The process evaluation can utilize both qualitative and quantitative data collection methods to examine program implementation with attention to how program components work together to produce desired outcomes; highlighting strategies and barriers to achieving desired outcomes.

An outcome evaluation is a type of evaluation that investigates whether changes occur for participants in a program and if these changes are associated with a program or an activity. Such evaluations examine whether, to what extent, and in what direction outcomes change for those in the program. Outcomes are specific attitudes, knowledge, behaviors, or skills of children or youth that programs aim to influence positively.

The program's activities, staffing/ resources, data collection activities and data collection tools (surveys for example) and time line must also be presented to DOH for review.

|     | its proposed services.  |        |

Criterion D: Organizational History and Experience Total 20 Points

In this section, the applicant must describe the overall experience of the applicant organization in working with the target population.

| D-1 | The applicant must describe relevant experience providing specific   | 10        |

| E-2 | The resources and personnel proposed are sufficient to achieve the           | Not    |  |  |  |  |
|     | objectives of the proposed program.  | Scored |  |  |  |  |
|     |  |        |  |  |  |  |
